20 IDEAS FOR BUSY FAMILIES TO CHAMPION DEMOCRACY

1	Write and decorate postcards with your kids in support of candidates and issues you care about.	2	Avoid companies with discrimination policies or that support discriminatory legislation. Opt for small, local, minority-owned businesses. Consult sources like Goods Unite Us (a free app), shopblueusa.com , or conduct your own research.
3	Involve children in mutual aid efforts (e.g. pack items and deliver them to community fridges).	4	Display window signs of solidarity with communities affected by persecution and discrimination.
5	Create sidewalk chalk art that reflects solidarity and kindness (e.g. “choose kindness; “human kind -> be both”; “all are welcome here.”)	6	Decorate t-shirts or yard signs with your hopes for a society where all kids thrive and wear them in public.
7	Make “Future Voter” buttons while talking about the importance of voting.	8	Honk in support of sign wavers with whom you agree.
9	Host a sign making party. Join a neighborhood rally as a family and talk with your kids about advocacy, democracy, and people’s rights.	10	Unsubscribe from services that do not support your values.
11	Borrow children’s library books and watch movies about people who stood up for people’s rights.	12	Read books and watch films that celebrate different races, identities, and cultures.
13	Talk with your children about kindness, solidarity, inclusion, and building community	14	Email your elected officials asking for investment in health and science research.
15	Help your child write and send a letter to your elected officials about funding for every family’s basic needs: education, health, and housing.	16	Say something encouraging to people engaged in pro-democracy actions.
17	Donate the price of a coffee to an immigrant-serving community group.	18	On social media, explain simply and respectfully a justice issue you care about. Even if you don’t change people’s minds, someone else might see it and think about the issue in a new way.
19	Take turns babysitting with other parents so you can all attend a rally or sign wave.	20	Read “ The Constitution Translated for Kids ”, by Cathy Travis (also in Spanish)
